A convincing concept

The Whailex-Net Protection System is superior to usual systems because the protection nets are mounted directly at the supporting devices of the respective vine and berry cultures. They remain permanently in the vineyard to be quickly activated in any case of need. One singular person is able to emplace the protection net by simple winding up in a matter of seconds.

The vines are growing, protected between the nets reducing considerably the time consuming tacking work.

The public department of viticulture in Freiburg is going to examine in a perennial study the Whailex-Net Protection System for viticulture.

Versatile applicable

Side span by fruit roofing
